MAIN GALLERY

Katherine Boyer: How the Sky Carries the Sun
January 13 - March 13

In the artworks that comprise this exhibition, we see Boyer's deep research that she processes through arduous and detailed hand-making. Each knot, stitch, timber join, and plant forms a tactile conduit between the body, history, materials and lived experience.

Boyer resists reducing herself to one or another term in binary opposition; instead, she embraces uncertainty, messiness and permeability between facets of the Self. Understanding comes from asking, "Am I the sky, or am I the sun?"
